OVIE MUGHELLI

LEADER . SPEAKER . BRAND AMBASSADOR

ABBREVIATED BIO

Ovie Mughelli is an award winning and nationally recognized retired professional athlete turned media correspondent, author, empowerment speaker, and environmental advocate. During his nine seasons playing in the National Football League, Ovie was considered one of the best fullbacks in the NFL, while playing for the Atlanta Falcons and the Baltimore Ravens.

Since retiring from the sport in 2012, Ovie founded ONO Consulting where he has continued to leverage his platform to deliver value as a strategic business partner to various medical companies. He is also a brand ambassador having promoted renowned brands such as Walmart, Roku, Post Cereal, and Lipton.

His philanthropic efforts include The Ovie Mughelli Foundation where he educates and empowers, along with his wife Masika, the next generation of green leaders. They are working to diversify the exponentially growing green industry, giving equal access to all the benefits that green spaces provide. Ultimately, the couple wants to leave a legacy that will allow youth to have a better future - advocating for healthy environmental practices and opening their eyes to the need for everyone to take an active role in preserving the planet.
